This event follows a successful East Valley job fair held this past June in San Bernardino. Of the 657 participants surveyed, 554 stated they were very satisfied with the types of jobs available at the East Valley Job Fair. Additionally, 185 respondents indicated they were actually interviewed on the spot.

"San Bernardino County job creation and economic growth are a top priority for us, and we want to help connect our constituents to those valuable resources. This WDB job fair is a great example of this and it will be held at our iconic 'Old Airport' at ONT," said Curt Hagman, Vice Chairman of the Board of Supervisors.

Tony Myrell, Chairman of the Workforce Development Board, said job fairs such as this, are one of several ways the WDB connects businesses with a skilled labor force.

"Our mission at WDB is to support a strong, vibrant economy by encouraging business growth and creating job opportunities. Hosting these job fairs is just one example of the many resources made available to both the business community and to individuals," Myrell said.
